In the Spotlight: HOUR of CODE

When I was in grade school, we learned about computers on machines such as the PET, TRS80, and Apple IIe. Low resolution graphics were "thrilling" and programming opportunities included LOGOWriter, BASIC and PASCAL. Computer education in 2015 might not appear to be the same, but the concept of 'programming' is still very much alive. This week, December 7-13, is Computer Science Education Week and we are celebrating with our second annual Hour of Code. The Hour of Code is a global movement reaching tens of millions of students in 180+ countries. The goal is for every student to try the computer programming known as "coding" for one hour.

This week Ms. Diehl, our technology teacher, kicked off the Hour of Code with grade level assemblies to help children understand what coding is all about. We will continue next week by having each class participate in the Hour of Code tutorials. From December 14 – January 2 students will be participating in a school-wide competition to see how many lines of code we can write. Students are invited to work at home and at school to complete as many lines as they can. On Monday, December 21, the computer lab will be open to students from 8:00am – 8:40am for a morning of code. All are welcome!

Our goal is to get children to think, create, and have fun -- all while experiencing computer programming. We want to show that anyone can learn the basics of programming and become a maker, a creator, or an innovator. Students and adults across the country are getting involved and we'd like students at LHS to join as well. For more information, visit <http://hourofcode.com/us>.

Cinderella

The most classic of all fairy tales springs to life in this fast-paced musical production! Featuring a professional cast and live music, all the ingredients that have made the story a perennial favorite are here - ragged Cinderella, her cruel stepmother and selfish stepsisters, the ball, the handsome prince looking for a bride, the fairy godmother, the glass slipper, the search for the foot that fits it, and the happily-ever-after ending! This musical will delight the young and the 'young at heart.'
